Law Practice

Brad is a skilled trial lawyer with a practice that emphasizes litigation, including real property, domestic relations and other litigation matters. He graduated Cum Laude from Brigham Young University School of Law, LL.M. program. Brad earned his law degree from the University of British Columbia School of Law, where he served as the Managing Editor of the UBC Law Review.

Brad practiced law as a Barrister and Solicitor in British Columbia, Canada for five years, starting his legal practice with the national firm of Lang Michener in Vancouver, B.C. He moved to Oregon in 1999 where he first worked at the Harrang Long firm prior to joining Hutchinson Cox and becoming a shareholder.

His experience includes complex commercial litigation, multi-party real estate disputes, as well as complex civil litigation matters. Brad worked as part of the appeals team to defeat one of the largest jury verdicts in Oregon history, Williams v. Philip Morris Inc., a $79 million jury verdict against Philip Morris Inc. Regardless of this background working on complex litigation matters, what Brad enjoys most is working with families or small businesses to resolve smaller, yet equally important disputes.

Brad is a zealous advocate for his clients with significant trial and jury experience. Brad served as the Chair of the Oregon State Bar State Professional Responsibility Board which governs lawyer ethics in the State of Oregon, where he served as a member between 2013 and 2017. Since 2017, Brad serves as a Pro Tem judge of the Lane County Circuit Court.
